It's All About Nutrition
Our Complete Line of Products

Fully Vetted

As a veterinarian, you can rest assured that feeding your patients our whole-food diets can lead to better health. But don't just take our word for it. Independent research at a major university found that dogs fed JustFoodForDogs recipes experience a boost in immune cells and other markers of health.

Never satisfied, we are continuously looking for new ways to improve our healthy meals, treats and supplements. That's why we have eight veterinarians on staff with deep expertise in veterinary nutrition and why we work with hundreds of board certified and general practice vets nationwide.

Unlike other dog food companies, our kitchens are always open to the public so that you and your clients can see our food being made from fresh, humanly consumable ingredients. Not only that, but we have veterinarian-trained nutritional consultants at each location to ensure that your patients get exactly the right food to meet their unique needs. In short, we are relentlessly dedicated to doing everything possible to provide better nutrition and better lives for your patients.

Daily Diets

Made fresh daily in our open kitchens, JustFoodForDogs meals are 100% made from ingredients that are certified by the USDA and approved for human consumption. Each daily recipe has gone through AAFCO feeding trials and has been evaluated by a PhD nutritionist at a major university. We proudly post our feeding trials certificates on our website.
